

Interfaces

Publication details, including instructions for authors and subscription information:
<http://pubsonline.informs.org>

Contributors

To cite this article:

(1999) Contributors. Interfaces 29(6):148-148. <https://doi.org/10.1287/inte.29.6.148>

Full terms and conditions of use: <https://pubsonline.informs.org/Publications/Librarians-Portal/PubsOnLine-Terms-and-Conditions>

This article may be used only for the purposes of research, teaching, and/or private study. Commercial use or systematic downloading (by robots or other automatic processes) is prohibited without explicit Publisher approval, unless otherwise noted. For more information, contact permissions@informs.org.

The Publisher does not warrant or guarantee the article's accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. Descriptions of, or references to, products or publications, or inclusion of an advertisement in this article, neither constitutes nor implies a guarantee, endorsement, or support of claims made of that product, publication, or service.

Copyright © 1999, INFORMS

Please scroll down for article—it is on subsequent pages

With 12,500 members from nearly 90 countries, INFORMS is the largest international association of operations research (O.R.) and analytics professionals and students. INFORMS provides unique networking and learning opportunities for individual professionals, and organizations of all types and sizes, to better understand and use O.R. and analytics tools and methods to transform strategic visions and achieve better outcomes.

For more information on INFORMS, its publications, membership, or meetings visit <http://www.informs.org>

Contributors

Michael S. Allen heads the worldwide strategy consulting practice for Strategic Decisions Group, working in the automotive, electronics, airline, petrochemical, oil and gas, pharmaceutical, telecommunications, corporate services and electric utility industries. He holds a BS in electrical engineering and an MS in industrial engineering and operations research from U California at Berkeley.

Bruce Berkey was controller, Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Science and Technology Center and is now manager of shared services for Ingersoll-Rand in Charlotte, North Carolina. He holds a BS in accounting from the U of Baltimore and an MS in administration from Central Michigan U, and is a CPA.

Samuel E. Bodily is the John Tyler professor of business administration at the Darden School, U of Virginia. He teaches MBA and executive education courses in quantitative analysis, decision modeling, and strategy. He has published articles in decision analysis, risk analysis, and management science. He earned his SM and PhD in OR from MIT.

Patricio del Sol is professor of competitive strategy and project valuation at Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile. He holds a PhD in engineering-economic systems from Stanford U. In 1995 and 1996, he was a visiting research fellow at Harvard Business School. He has worked as a consultant for many Chilean firms and institutions.

Pankaj Ghemawat is Tiampo professor of business administration at Harvard Business School. His research focuses on strategic investments, game theory, and most recently, international competition. He is the author of Commitment, Games Businesses Play, and Strategy and the Business Landscape.

Ralph L. Keeney is a professor in the Marshall School of Business affiliated with the Center for Telecommunications Management at the U of Southern California. He is co-author of Smart Choices: A Practical Guide to Making Better Decisions with John S. Hammond and Howard Raiffa, which was published by the Harvard Business School Press in 1999. He enjoys squash, skiing, and travel.

Peter V. King was a senior engineer, Decision and Risk Analysis at the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Science and Technology Center and now owns and operates Century Farm Convenience Center in Piedmont, South Carolina. He earned a BA in economics and an MS in industrial engineering from the U of Pittsburgh.

David Matheson is a principal of Navigant Consulting, Inc./Strategic Decisions Group, an international management consulting firm. His consulting practice focuses on R&D-intensive organizations. In addition, he has been principal investigator in many studies on decision making and organizational intelligence in a variety of industries. He is an author of The Smart Organization.

James Matheson, a founding director of the Strategic Decisions Group (now part of Navigant Consulting, Inc.), is a recognized leader in the development and application of decision analysis. He has conducted strategy work with companies in industries ranging from chemical and pharmaceutical to entertainment. He won the INFORMS Ramsey award for lifetime contribution to decision analysis. He is an author of The Smart Organization.

William J. McAllister was a senior mathematician, Decision and Risk Analysis at the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Science and Technology Center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and now holds a similar position with Siemens Westinghouse Power Corporation at the same site. He earned degrees at the U of Michigan (BA, math) and the U of Pittsburgh (MBA).

Robert K. Perdue was formerly program manager, Decision and Risk Analysis at the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Science and Technology Center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and now holds a similar position with the Westinghouse Electric Company at the same site. He earned a PhD in economics from West Virginia U.

William B. Poland was a technical associate at Strategic Decisions Group, a management consulting firm at the time of the project. Currently he is a decision analyst at Pharsight Corporation, a pharmaceutical consulting and software firm. He has a PhD in engineering-economic systems from Stanford U and an MS in OR from U California Berkeley. He never met an uncertainty he didn't like.

Mazen A. Skaf is a senior consultant with Navigant Consulting, Strategy Consulting Practice (formerly Strategic Decisions Group). He specializes in strategy development and evaluation, portfolio management, and negotiation analysis. He holds degrees from the U of Texas at Arlington and Stanford U. His doctoral dissertation was on the use of financial engineering and real options in the design of negotiated agreements.