Notes

THE FIRST issue of the quarterly Policy Sciences appeared in the late spring, 1970. Its Editor is EDWARD S. QUADE of the Rand Corporation, 1700 Main Street, Santa Monica, California 90406. In his inaugural preface, Quade states:

The objectives of this journal, as I see them, are threefold. First to provide a forum for papers in the various policy science disciplines—political science, sociology, operations research, statistical decision theory, and so on—dealing with the making, choice, critique, evaluation, and implementation of policy, including how-to-do-it papers on these aspects. Second, to promote the policy sciences, to actively encourage the mingling of the decision with the behavioral sciences and the development of a new interdisciplinary activity. Third to aid in the improvement of policy-making systems and capacities.

The first issue contains the following articles:

- HAROLD D. LASSWELL, "The Emerging Conception of the Policy Sciences"
- STEPHEN ENKE, "The Economics of Having Children"
- ERICH JANTSCH, "From Forecasting and Planning to Policy Sciences"
- VINCENT TAYLOR, "How Much Is Good Health Worth"
- K. A. ARCHIBALD, "Three Views of the Expert's Role in Policymaking: Systems Analysis, Incrementalism, and the Clinical Approach"
- RALPH E. STRAUCH, "Some Thoughts on the Use and Misuse of Statistical Inference"
- ELEANOR BERNERT SHELDON AND HOWARD E. FREEMAN, "Notes on Social Indicators: Promises and Potential"

DON E. KASH AND MICHAEL A. WEINSTEIN, "The R and D Contract and Democratic Theory"

DAVIS B. BOBROW, "Computers and a Normative Model of the Policy Process"

YEHEZKEL DROR, "Prolegomena to the Policy Sciences."
