

Organization Science

Publication details, including instructions for authors and subscription information:
<http://pubsonline.informs.org>

About Authors

To cite this article:

(2008) About Authors. Organization Science 19(4):666-668. <https://doi.org/10.1287/orsc.1080.0384>

Full terms and conditions of use: <https://pubsonline.informs.org/Publications/Librarians-Portal/PubsOnLine-Terms-and-Conditions>

This article may be used only for the purposes of research, teaching, and/or private study. Commercial use or systematic downloading (by robots or other automatic processes) is prohibited without explicit Publisher approval, unless otherwise noted. For more information, contact permissions@informs.org.

The Publisher does not warrant or guarantee the article's accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. Descriptions of, or references to, products or publications, or inclusion of an advertisement in this article, neither constitutes nor implies a guarantee, endorsement, or support of claims made of that product, publication, or service.

Copyright © 2008, INFORMS

Please scroll down for article—it is on subsequent pages

With 12,500 members from nearly 90 countries, INFORMS is the largest international association of operations research (O.R.) and analytics professionals and students. INFORMS provides unique networking and learning opportunities for individual professionals, and organizations of all types and sizes, to better understand and use O.R. and analytics tools and methods to transform strategic visions and achieve better outcomes. For more information on INFORMS, its publications, membership, or meetings visit <http://www.informs.org>

About Authors

Mathias Arrfelt (“Moving Closer to the Action: Examining Compensation Design Effects on Firm Risk”) is a doctoral candidate at the Eli Broad Graduate School of Management at Michigan State University. His research interests include executive compensation, executive hubris, and the capital allocation process in multidivisional firms. Address: School of Global Management and Leadership, Arizona State University, Phoenix, AZ 85069; e-mail: mathias.arrfelt@asu.edu.

Daniel C. Bello (“Drivers and Performance Outcomes of Trust in International Strategic Alliances: The Role of Organizational Complexity”) is the Marketing Roundtable Professor at the J. Mack Robinson College of Business of Georgia State University. He received his Ph.D. from Michigan State University. His main areas of research are in the design and management of marketing distribution systems. His work has been published in many leading journals such as Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of International Business Studies, and Journal of Marketing. Address: J. Mack Robinson College of Business, Georgia State University, 35 Broad Street N.W., Atlanta, GA 30303; e-mail: dbello@gsu.edu.

Prithviraj Chattopadhyay (“The Asymmetrical Influence of Sex Dissimilarity in Distributive vs. Colocated Work Groups”) is Associate Professor of Management at Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin. His research interests include relational demography, social identity, and managerial cognition. His work appears in Academy of Management Review, Administrative Science Quarterly, and Academy of Management Journal. Address: School of Business and Management, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, Clear Water Bay, Kowloon, Hong Kong; e-mail: prithvi@ust.hk.

Wei-Ru Chen (“Determinants of Firms’ Backward- and Forward-Looking R&D Search Behavior”) is an assistant professor of strategy at INSEAD. He received his Ph.D. from the Graduate School of Management at Purdue University in 2003. He is interested in firm search behavior, innovation, and strategic risk taking. His research appears in journals such as Academy of Management Journal, Organization Science, Strategic Management Journal, and Strategic Organization. Address: 1 Ayer Rajah Avenue, Singapore 138676; e-mail: weiru.chen@insead.edu.

Vinit M. Desai (“Constrained Growth: How Experience, Legitimacy, and Age Influence Risk Taking in Organizations”) is an assistant professor of strategic management at the University of Colorado at Denver. He received his Ph.D. from the University of California, Berkeley in 2007. His research interests include organizational learning, managerial decision making, and organizational failures. Address: Business School, University of Colorado at Denver, P.O. Box 173364, Denver, CO 80217-3364; e-mail: vinit.desai@cudenver.edu.

Cynthia E. Devers (“Moving Closer to the Action: Examining Compensation Design Effects on Firm Risk”) is an assistant professor in the School of Business at the University of Wisconsin–Madison. She received her Ph.D. in strategic management from the Eli Broad College of Business at Michigan State University in 2003. Her current research interests include the effects of executive and TMT compensation, corporate governance, decision-making biases, and risk on strategic choice, and the structure, damage, and repair of organizational relationships. Address: School of Business, University of Wisconsin–Madison, Madison, WI 53706; e-mail: cdevers@bus.wisc.edu.

Elizabeth George (“The Asymmetrical Influence of Sex Dissimilarity in Distributive vs. Colocated Work Groups”) is Associate Professor of Management at Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin. Her research interests include nonstandard work arrangement, social identity, and institutional theory. Her work appears in Academy of Management Review, Administrative Science Quarterly, and Journal of Applied Psychology. Address: School of Business and Management, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, Clear Water Bay, Kowloon, Hong Kong; e-mail: egeorge@ust.hk.

Constantine S. Katsikeas (“Drivers and Performance Outcomes of Trust in International Strategic Alliances: The Role of Organizational Complexity”) is the Arnold Ziff Research Chair in Marketing and International Management at Leeds University Business School, Leeds University. He holds a Ph.D. from Cardiff University. His main research interests lie in the areas of marketing management, international marketing and purchasing, strategic alliances, and competitive strategy. He has published widely in these fields and his articles have appeared in Decision Sciences, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Marketing, Strategic Management Journal, and other journals. Address: Leeds University Business School, University of Leeds, Leeds LS2 9JT, U.K.; e-mail: csk@lubs.leeds.ac.uk.

Dovev Lavie (“Alliance Portfolio Internationalization and Firm Performance”) received his Ph.D. in management from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. He is an assistant professor at the University of Texas at Austin and a senior lecturer at the Technion. Focused on strategic management, his research interests include value creation and appropriation in alliance portfolios, the balance between exploration and exploitation, and applications of the resource-based view in interconnected technology-intensive industries. Address: Faculty of Industrial Engineering and Management, Technion, Haifa 32000, Israel; e-mail: dlavie@ie.technion.ac.il.

Alessandro Lomi (“E Pluribus Unum: Framing, Matching, and Form Emergence in U.S. Television Broadcasting, 1940–1960”) is a member of the Faculty of Economics at the University of Lugano (Switzerland) and of the Department of Management Sciences of the University of Bologna (Italy). From 2007 he is Senior Research Fellow in the School of Behavioural Science at the University of Melbourne (Australia). Address: Department of Management Sciences, University of Bologna, Via Capo di Lucca 34, 40100 Bologna, Italy; e-mail: alessandro.lomi@unibo.it

Elie Matta (“Too Risky To Hold? The Effect of Downside Risk, Accumulated Equity Wealth, and Firm Performance on CEO Equity Reduction”) earned his Ph.D. in business administration at the Richard Ivey School of Business, University of Western Ontario, Canada. He is currently an assistant professor of management at HEC Paris. His research interests are primarily in agency theory and prospect theory, with focus on chief executive officers, executive compensation, managerial risk taking, and international strategy. Address: HEC Paris, 1 Rue de la Libération, Jouy en Josas, 78351, France; e-mail: matta@hec.fr.

Jean McGuire (“Too Risky To Hold? The Effect of Downside Risk, Accumulated Equity Wealth, and Firm Performance on CEO Equity Reduction”) is the William W. Rucks IV Endowed Chair of Management at the E. J. Ourso College of Business, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. She earned her Ph.D. at Cornell University. Her research interests are in the areas of corporate governance, executive compensation, and corporate social responsibility. Address: Ourso College of Business, 3171 B Patrick F. Taylor Hall, Baton Rouge, LA 70803; e-mail: mcguire@lsu.edu.

Gerry McNamara (“Moving Closer to the Action: Examining Compensation Design Effects on Firm Risk”) is an associate professor of management at Michigan State University. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota in 1996. His research focuses on examining the effects of behavioral factors, organizational practices, and strategic positioning on organizational decision making and risk taking. His research also examines the consequences of socially constructed market boundaries on firm positioning and performance. His research has been published in Academy of Management Journal, Strategic Management Journal, Organization Science, and Journal of International Business Studies. Address: Department of Management, Eli Broad Graduate School of Management, Michigan State University, East Lansing, MI 48824; e-mail: mcnamara@bus.msu.edu.

Stewart R. Miller (“Alliance Portfolio Internationalization and Firm Performance”) received his Ph.D. in strategic management from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University. He is an associate professor at the University of Texas at San Antonio. Focused on international strategy, his research interests include liability of foreignness, internationalization, and the performance of multinational firms and foreign affiliates. His work also involved emerging markets. Address: College of Business, Management Department, University of Texas at San Antonio, San Antonio, TX 78249; e-mail: stewart.miller@utsa.edu.

Michael W. Morris (“Culture and Coworker Relations: Interpersonal Patterns in American, Chinese, German, and Spanish Divisions of a Global Retail Bank”) is the Chavkin-Chang Professor of Leadership at the Graduate School of Business, Columbia University. He received his Ph.D. from University of Michigan. His research interests include the study of social judgment and how people make sense of events observed in their environment. One of his main emphases is on the effects of cross-cultural differences on social judgment. Address: Columbia Business School, Uris Hall, 3022 Broadway, New York, NY 10027; e-mail: mwm82@columbia.edu.

Giacomo Negro (“E Pluribus Unum: Framing, Matching, and Form Emergence in U.S. Television Broadcasting, 1940–1960”) is a senior lecturer of strategy at Durham University. He received his Ph.D. in management from Bocconi University. His main research interest focuses on ecological approaches to organizational identity, organizational forms, and team composition. Address: Durham Business School, Durham University, Mill Hill Lane, Durham DH1 3LB, UK; e-mail: giacomo.negro@durham.ac.uk.

Fabrizio Perretti (“E Pluribus Unum: Framing, Matching, and Form Emergence in U.S. Television Broadcasting, 1940–1960”) is Assistant Professor of Strategy at Università Bocconi (Italy). His research focuses on economic sociology and addresses organizational forms evolution, status, and legitimation processes. Address: Università Bocconi, Via Bocconi 8, 20136 Milano, Italy; e-mail: fabrizio.perretti@unibocconi.it.

Joel Podolny (“Culture and Coworker Relations: Interpersonal Patterns in American, Chinese, German, and Spanish Divisions of a Global Retail Bank”) is Dean and William S. Beinecke Professor of Management at the Yale School of Management. The research for which he is best known is that in which he brings the sociological conception of status to the study of market competition. In addition to his work on status, he has conducted research on the role of social networks in mobility and information transfer within organizations. His current research explores how leaders infuse meanings into their organizations. He has authored or coauthored 2 books and more than 25 papers, with his articles having appeared in leading sociology and management journals. Address: Yale School of Management, 135 Prospect Street, New Haven, CT 06511; e-mail: joel.podolny@yale.edu.

Ryan W. Quinn (“Enabling Courageous Collective Action: Conversations from United Airlines Flight 93”) is Assistant Professor of Business Administration at the Darden Graduate School of Business of the University of Virginia. He received his Ph.D. from the Ross School of Business at the University of Michigan. His research examines high-impact conversations: conversations that enable courageous collective action, that lead to learning, that change power structures, that energize people, and so forth. His work appears in Administrative Science Quarterly, Academy of Management Review, Human Resource Management, and in edited volumes. Address: 100 Darden Blvd., Charlottesville, VA, 22903; e-mail: quinnr@darden.virginia.edu.

Matthew J. Robson (“Drivers and Performance Outcomes of Trust in International Strategic Alliances: The Role of Organizational Complexity”) is an assistant professor at Cardiff University. He earned a Ph.D. at Cardiff University in 2001. His research interests focus on cross-border interfirm alliances, distribution channel relationships, and social and structural relationship governance and maintenance mechanisms. Address: Cardiff Business School, Cardiff University, Colum Drive, Cardiff CF10 3EU, UK; e-mail: robsonmj@cf.ac.uk.

Arthur D. Shulman (“The Asymmetrical Influence of Sex Dissimilarity in Distributive vs. Colocated Work Groups”) is Professor of Business at Griffith University and Director Quality and Accreditation. He earned his Ph.D. in social psychology from SUNY–Buffalo. Much of his current research focuses on corporate responsibility knowing—doing gaps within public sector–private sector alliances and R&D knowledge systems. Address:

Griffith Business School, P.O. Box 3370, South Brisbane, Queensland 4101, Australia; e-mail: a.shulman@griffith.edu.au.

Bilian Ni Sullivan (“Culture and Coworker Relations: Interpersonal Patterns in American, Chinese, German, and Spanish Divisions of a Global Retail Bank”) received her Ph.D. from Stanford University and currently is an assistant professor at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. Her research interests are in the areas of learning, social networks, and stratification. Address: Department of Management of Organizations, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, Clear Water Bay, Kowloon, Hong Kong; e-mail: mnbilian@ust.hk.

Robert M. Wiseman (“Moving Closer to the Action: Examining Compensation Design Effects on Firm Risk”) is an associate professor and the Eli Broad Legacy Fellow of Management at the Eli Broad Graduate School of Management at Michigan State University. He earned his Ph.D. in strategic management from the University of Minnesota in 1992. Dr. Wiseman’s research interests include modeling decision behavior under uncertainty, strategic risk management, and the role of risk in executive compensation, and strategic decision making. He is currently on the editorial boards of Strategic Management Journal and The Journal of High Technology Management Research. Address: Department of Management, Eli Broad Graduate School of Management, Michigan State University, East Lansing, MI 48824; e-mail: wiseman@bus.msu.edu.

Monica C. Worline (“Enabling Courageous Collective Action: Conversations from United Airlines Flight 93”) is Assistant Professor of Organization and Management at Emory University’s Goizueta Business School. She received her Ph.D. in organizational psychology from the University of Michigan. Her research addresses the ways that organizations enliven people to maintain or expand their capacity for action in the face of adversity, with specific interests in courage, compassion, and the intersection of agency and structure. Her work appears in Administrative Science Quarterly, Organization Science, Harvard Business Review, Character Strengths and Virtues: A Handbook and Classification, and other edited volumes. Address: 1300 Clifton Rd. NE, Atlanta, GA 30322; e-mail: monica_worline@bus.emory.edu.