

Organization Science

Publication details, including instructions for authors and subscription information:
<http://pubsonline.informs.org>

About Authors

To cite this article:

(1991) About Authors. Organization Science 2(3):320-321. <https://doi.org/10.1287/orse.2.3.320>

Full terms and conditions of use: <https://pubsonline.informs.org/Publications/Librarians-Portal/PubsOnLine-Terms-and-Conditions>

This article may be used only for the purposes of research, teaching, and/or private study. Commercial use or systematic downloading (by robots or other automatic processes) is prohibited without explicit Publisher approval, unless otherwise noted. For more information, contact permissions@informs.org.

The Publisher does not warrant or guarantee the article's accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. Descriptions of, or references to, products or publications, or inclusion of an advertisement in this article, neither constitutes nor implies a guarantee, endorsement, or support of claims made of that product, publication, or service.

© 1991 INFORMS

Please scroll down for article—it is on subsequent pages

With 12,500 members from nearly 90 countries, INFORMS is the largest international association of operations research (O.R.) and analytics professionals and students. INFORMS provides unique networking and learning opportunities for individual professionals, and organizations of all types and sizes, to better understand and use O.R. and analytics tools and methods to transform strategic visions and achieve better outcomes.

For more information on INFORMS, its publications, membership, or meetings visit <http://www.informs.org>

ABOUT AUTHORS

Richard A. Bettis ("Strategic Management and the Straightjacket: An Editorial Essay") is Corrigan Professor of Business Policy at the Edwin L. Cox School of Business, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX 75275 (telephone: (214) 692-2786/2513; fax (214) 692-4099). His primary research interests are the strategic problems of large firms, global strategy, and technology strategy. He is an associate editor of Management Science, a consulting editor of The Academy of Management Review, and a member of the editorial review board of the Strategic Management Journal.

Robert A. Burgelman ("Intraorganizational Ecology of Strategy Making and Organizational Adaptation: Theory and Field Research") is Associate Professor of Management at the Graduate School of Business, Stanford University. He was the BP America Faculty Fellow for 1988-89 at Stanford Business School, and will be a Marvin Bower Fellow at Harvard Business School in 1991-92. He received a Licenciante in Applied Economics degree from Antwerp University, Belgium, and an M.A. degree in Sociology and a Ph.D. degree in Management of Organizations from Columbia University. He has published articles in Administrative Science Quarterly, Management Science, Organization Science, Academy of Management Review, Strategic Management Journal, Sloan Management Review, California Management Review, and other journals.

He is coauthor of Inside Corporate Innovation: Strategy Structure and Managerial Skills (Free Press, 1986), Strategic Management of Technology and Innovation (Irwin, 1988) and Research on Technological Innovation, Management and Policy, Vol. 4 (JAI Press, 1989).

In 1984 he won the "Outstanding Paper Award," Division of Business Policy and Planning, Academy of Management. He is the 1990 Chair Elect for the Division of Business Policy and Planning of the Academy of Management. He has been a speaker at academic conferences and executive education programs in the United States, Europe, Asia and Australia, and has been a consultant with several major companies. Address: Graduate School of Business, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-5015 (telephone: (415) 723-4488).

Sidney E. Harris ("Organization Performance and Information Technology Investment Intensity in the Insurance Industry") is Professor and Chairman of the Management Program of the Peter F. Drucker Graduate Management Center at The Claremont Graduate School. He received his B.A. in Mathematics from Morehouse College, and both his M.S. degree and his Ph.D. degree in Operations Research from SORIE at Cornell University. He worked for three years at Bell Telephone Laboratories where he directed the development of marketing decision support systems. His current research interests focus on the economics of investments in information technology, technological innovation and management, and technology-based strategies for information intensive industries. He has consulted widely and is the author of numerous monographs, book chapters and papers about information technology in both practitioner and scholarly journals. He is an Associate Editor of MIS Quarterly and IEEE Office Knowledge Engineering, and a member of the editorial advisory board for Business Forum. Address: Peter F. Drucker Graduate Management Center, The Claremont Graduate School, Claremont, CA 91711-6184 (telephone: (714) 621-8000).

Charles W. L. Hill ("Managerial Risk Taking in Diversified Firms: An Evolutionary Perspective") is an Associate Professor of Management in the Department of Management and Organization at the University of Washington. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Manchester, in Great Britain. His research interests include corporate ownership, corporate strategy and structure, and the comparative study of markets and hierarchies. Address: Department of Management and Organization, University of Washington, Seattle, WA 98105.

Michael A. Hitt ("Managerial Risk Taking in Diversified Firms: An Evolutionary Perspective") is the T. J. Barlow Professor of Business Administration at Texas A&M University. He is the author or coauthor of several books and articles appearing in scholarly journals in management, organization theory and strategic management. Having served on the editorial review boards for several journals, he is currently the editor of the Academy of Management Journal. His current research focuses on the effects of acquisitions and strategic refocusing on innovation, transnational strategic decision making and the outcomes of global diversification. Address: Department of Management, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843.

Robert E. Hoskisson ("Managerial Risk Taking in Diversified Firms: An Evolutionary Perspective") is presently an Associate Professor of Management at Texas A&M University. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of California, Irvine. His research interests include global and corporate diversification strategy, structure and controls of large multiproduct firms, innovation in very large corporations and corporate governance. Address: Department of Management, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843 (telephone: (409) 845-4851; fax: (409) 845-9641).

Joseph L. Katz ("Organizational Performance and Information Technology Investment Intensity in the Insurance Industry") is Associate Professor of Decision Sciences at Georgia State University. He received his Ph.D. in Quantitative Methods from Louisiana State University in 1978. Professor Katz is a professional statistician who specializes in the areas of economic impact analysis and discrimination. He has testified as an expert witness on statistics in litigation on racial discrimination in death sentencing and jury selection. Professor Katz has published articles in Management Science, Office Technology and People, Journal of Regional Science, and The Accounting Review. Address: Department of Decision Sciences, Georgia State University, College of Business Administration, Atlanta, GA 30303.