

Organization Science

Publication details, including instructions for authors and subscription information:
<http://pubsonline.informs.org>

About Authors for Vol. 3, Issue 3

To cite this article:

(1992) About Authors for Vol. 3, Issue 3. Organization Science 3(4):561-562. <https://doi.org/10.1287/orsc.3.4.561>

Full terms and conditions of use: <https://pubsonline.informs.org/Publications/Librarians-Portal/PubsOnLine-Terms-and-Conditions>

This article may be used only for the purposes of research, teaching, and/or private study. Commercial use or systematic downloading (by robots or other automatic processes) is prohibited without explicit Publisher approval, unless otherwise noted. For more information, contact permissions@informs.org.

The Publisher does not warrant or guarantee the article's accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. Descriptions of, or references to, products or publications, or inclusion of an advertisement in this article, neither constitutes nor implies a guarantee, endorsement, or support of claims made of that product, publication, or service.

© 1992 INFORMS

Please scroll down for article—it is on subsequent pages

With 12,500 members from nearly 90 countries, INFORMS is the largest international association of operations research (O.R.) and analytics professionals and students. INFORMS provides unique networking and learning opportunities for individual professionals, and organizations of all types and sizes, to better understand and use O.R. and analytics tools and methods to transform strategic visions and achieve better outcomes. For more information on INFORMS, its publications, membership, or meetings visit <http://www.informs.org>

ABOUT AUTHORS

The following biographical sketches were not published in the August 1992 issue due to space constraints.

Deborah Ancona ("Demography and Design: Predictors of New Product Team Performance") is Associate Professor of Organization Studies at the Sloan School of Management, MIT. She received her Ph.D. from Columbia University in 1982, and then joined the faculty at the Amos Tuck School of Management, Dartmouth College before going to MIT. Her publications on group process and performance, and new product development have appeared in Administrative Science Quarterly and Academy of Management Journal. Address: MIT, 50 Memorial Drive, E52-582, Cambridge, MA 02142-1347 (telephone: (617) 253-0568; fax: (617) 253-2660; bitnet: DANCONA@SLOAN).

David Caldwell ("Demography and Design: Predictors of New Product Team Performance") is Associate Dean and Professor of Organizational Analysis and Management at the Leavey School of Business and Administration, Santa Clara University. His research interests include person-organization fit and group demography and performance. His recent publications have appeared in Administrative Science Quarterly, Journal of Applied Psychology and Academy of Management Journal. Address: Leavey School of Business Administration, Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, CA 95053 (telephone: (408) 554-4304; Bitnet: DCALDWELL@SCU).

Farid Harianto ("Technological Networking and Innovation Implementation") is Professor and Director of Graduate Programs at the Institute for Management Education and Development, Jakarta, Indonesia. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. (with distinction) from the University of Pennsylvania. His research interests include the role of technological innovation in strategy, interfirm linkages, corporate growth, and the internationalization process of Indonesian leading firms. His work has appeared in Strategic Management Journal, Academy of Management Journal, and in several edited books. Address: PPM, 9 Jalen Menteng Raya, Jahanta 20001, Indonesia (telephone: 62-21-357272; fax: 62-21-372481).

Oscar Hauptman ("Effectiveness of Organizational Responses to Technological Change in the Production Process") is Assistant Professor of Business Administration at Harvard University. His B.Eng. and M.Sc. are from the Israel Institute of Technology (Technion) and his doctorate in Management of Technological Innovation from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His research focuses on the relations between the nature of technology and its management. His recent research is a field study of technology forecasting and strategy related decision-making by top managers facing radical technological change. Address: Harvard Business School, Harvard University, Boston, MA 02163.

Charles W. L. Hill ("Strategies for Exploiting Technological Innovations: When and When Not to License") is Associate Professor of Management in the Department of Management and Organization at the University of Washington. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Manchester, in Great Britain. His research interests include corporate ownership, corporate strategy and structure, and the comparative study of markets and hierarchies. Address: Department of Management and Organization, University of Washington, Seattle, WA 98105 (telephone: (203) 543-4867; fax: (203) 685-9392).

Bruce Kogut ("Knowledge of the Firm, Combinative Capabilities, and the Replication of Technology") is Associate Professor at the Wharton School, at the University of Pennsylvania. Address: SH-DH 2000, Wharton School, Philadelphia, PA 19104 (Bitnet: Kogut@Wharton.upenn.edu).

Michael Lawless ("A Market for Ideas: Diversity and Progress in the Management of Technology" and "An Agency Perspective on New Technology Champions") is Associate Professor at the Graduate School of Business, University of Colorado, Boulder. He has held visiting appointments at the Anderson Graduate School of Management, UCLA, and the Tuck School at Dartmouth College. He serves on the editorial review boards of Organization Science and Journal of Management, and is Chairman of the Technology and Innovation Management Division of the Academy of Management. Professor Lawless conducts research in strategic management from industrial organization and institutional economics perspectives. His second interest is in management of technology and innovation. His work has been published in Management Science, Organization Science, Strategic Management Journal and Academy of Management Review, among others. He is coauthor of Technology & Strategy and coedits a series of volumes in Technology Management by JAI Press. He holds a Ph.D. and M.B.A. from UCLA.

Wanda J. Orlikowski ("The Duality of Technology: Rethinking the Concept of Technology in Organizations") is Assistant Professor of Information Technologies in the Sloan School of Management at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Her primary research interest focuses on the interaction between information technologies and organizational dimensions such as structures, control mechanisms, culture and work processes. She is currently investigating the role of social cognition in the adoption and use of information technologies. Dr. Orlikowski received her Ph.D. from New York University. She has published in Journal of MIS, Information Systems Research, MIS Quarterly and Research in the Sociology of Work. She serves on the editorial boards of Accounting, Management and Information Technologies and Organization Science. Address: Sloan School of Management, MIT (E53-329), Cambridge, MA 02139-4307 (telephone: (617) 253-0443; Bitnet: WANDA@EAGLE.MIT.EDU).

Johannes M. Pennings ("Technological Networking and Innovation Implementation") is at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, PA 19104 (telephone: (215) 898-7755; fax: (215) 898-0401; Bitnet: PENNINGS@WHARTON.UPENN.EDU). He received his M.A. at University of Utrecht, and Ph.D. at The University of Michigan, in 1973. His current research explores the success of innovation, and multinational issues around compensation, structure and culture. A recent book, New Technology as Organizational Innovation, Ballinger, 1987, examines the interface between technological innovation and organization. He is coeditor of Organization Studies, and serves on the editorial boards of Organization Science and Group and Organization Studies.

Linda L. Price ("An Agency Perspective on New Technology Champions") Associate Professor of Marketing at the University of Colorado at Boulder, holds a Ph.D. in Business Administration from the University of Texas at Austin. Her research focuses on marketplace exchanges and especially the role of interpersonal sources in information and innovation diffusion. Dr. Price is currently on the editorial boards of major marketing and business journals such as Journal of Marketing and Journal of Business Research. Her work has been published in Journal of Marketing, Journal of Consumer Research, Journal of Public Policy and Marketing, and Journal of Business Research, among others. Address: Campus Box 419, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0419 (telephone: (303) 492-7052; fax: (303) 492-5962; Bitnet: llprice@vaxf.colorado.edu).

Marcie J. Tyre ("Effectiveness of Organizational Responses to Technological Change in the Production Process") is Assistant Professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Sloan School of Management, 50 Memorial Drive, E52-564, Cambridge, MA 02139 (telephone: (617) 253-6679; e-mail: MTYRE@SLOAN.MIT.EDU). She received the D.B.A. from Harvard Business School. Her current research examines information exchange and problem-solving behaviors between users and developers of new technologies.

Udo Zander ("Knowledge of the Firm, Combinative Capabilities, and the Replication of Technology") is Assistant Professor and Research Associate at the Institute of International Business, Stockholm School of Economics. He received his Ph.D. degree in Business Administration from the Stockholm School of Economics in 1991. Address: Institute of International Business, Stockholm School of Economics, PO Box 6501, S-113 83 Stockholm, Sweden (telephone: +46-87369513; fax: +46-8319927).