

Organization Science

Publication details, including instructions for authors and subscription information:
<http://pubsonline.informs.org>

About Authors

To cite this article:

(1994) About Authors. Organization Science 5(3):476-477. <https://doi.org/10.1287/orse.5.3.476>

Full terms and conditions of use: <https://pubsonline.informs.org/Publications/Librarians-Portal/PubsOnLine-Terms-and-Conditions>

This article may be used only for the purposes of research, teaching, and/or private study. Commercial use or systematic downloading (by robots or other automatic processes) is prohibited without explicit Publisher approval, unless otherwise noted. For more information, contact permissions@informs.org.

The Publisher does not warrant or guarantee the article's accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. Descriptions of, or references to, products or publications, or inclusion of an advertisement in this article, neither constitutes nor implies a guarantee, endorsement, or support of claims made of that product, publication, or service.

© 1994 INFORMS

Please scroll down for article—it is on subsequent pages

With 12,500 members from nearly 90 countries, INFORMS is the largest international association of operations research (O.R.) and analytics professionals and students. INFORMS provides unique networking and learning opportunities for individual professionals, and organizations of all types and sizes, to better understand and use O.R. and analytics tools and methods to transform strategic visions and achieve better outcomes.

For more information on INFORMS, its publications, membership, or meetings visit <http://www.informs.org>

About Authors

Richard J. Boland, Jr. ("Designing Information Technology to Support Distributed Cognition") is Professor of Information and Decision Systems and Professor of Accounting, Weatherhead School of Management, Case Western Reserve University. His research over the last 15 years has emphasized interpretive studies of how individuals experience the process of designing, implementing and using information systems in organizations. Some representative publications have appeared in Management Science, Accounting, Organizations and Society, and Scandinavian Management Review. Address: Weatherhead School of Management, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, OH 44106, telephone: (216) 368-6022; e-mail: boland@spider.cwru.edu.

Kumar Chittipeddi ("Symbolism and Strategic Change in Academia: The Dynamics of Sensemaking and Influence") is Associate Professor of Management at Bryant College in Smithfield, Rhode Island. He received his Ph.D. in Business Administration in 1986 at the Pennsylvania State University. His research and teaching interests are primarily in the area of strategic management process issues, and the role of the CEO in managing strategic change. His work has been published in various journals including Strategic Management Journal. He has served on the boards of the Eastern Academy of Management, the Entrepreneurship Division of the Academy of Management, and the U.S. Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship. Address: Bryant College, Smithfield, RI 02917-1284, telephone: (401) 232-6438; fax: (401) 232-6319.

Shawn M. Clark ("Symbolism and Strategic Change in Academia: The Dynamics of Sensemaking and Influence") received a master's degree in Organizational Behavior from Brigham Young University in 1989. He is currently a doctoral candidate in the Department of Management and Organization, Pennsylvania State University, 403 Beam, University Park, PA 16802. His research interests include strategic sensemaking, the relationship between business strategy and information technology, and organizational learning. Bitnet: smc9@psuvm.edu.

Patricia Doyle Corner ("Integrating Organizational and Individual Information Processing Perspectives on Choice") is Lecturer (Assistant Professor) in strategic management at the University of Waikato. She received her Ph.D. from Arizona State University. Her research interests include strategic decision processes and top management teams (TMTs). In particular, she is interested in TMT characteristics, information processing, and the quality of decisions made by teams. Address: Department of Strategic Management, University of Waikato, Private Bag 3105, Hamilton, New Zealand, telephone 64-7-838-4430; fax 64-7-838-4356; bitnet pcorner@waikato.ac.nz.

C. Marlene Fiol ("Consensus, Diversity, and Learning in Organizations") is Assistant Professor of Management at the College of Business at the University of Colorado-Denver. She received her Ph.D. in Strategic Management from the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. Her research focuses on cognitive processes in organizations, particularly as these relate to change, learning, and innovation. Address: College of Business, University of Colorado-Denver, CB 165, PO Box 173364, Denver, CO 80217, telephone: (303) 628-1212; fax: (303) 628-1299; bitnet: MFIOLE@CUDNVR.DENVER.COLORADO.EDU.

Raghu Garud ("A Socio-cognitive Model of Technology Evolution: The Case of Cochlear Implants") is Associate Professor of Management at New York University, Stern School of Business. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota. His research interests lie at the interface of technology and strategy. He teaches a course on the management and assessment of technologies at New York University. Address: 7-13 Tisch Hall, New York University, 40 West 4th Street, New York, NY 10012, telephone (212) 998-0255; bitnet: rgarud@rnd.stern.nyu.edu.

Dennis A. Gioia ("Symbolism and Strategic Change in Academia: The Dynamics of Sensemaking and Influence") is Professor of Organizational Behavior in the Department of Management and Organization, Smeal College of Business Administration, Pennsylvania State University. His primary research and writing concern the nature and uses of cognitive processes by organization members and the ways these processes affect sensemaking, influence, and organizational change. Prior to his ivory tower career, he worked for Boeing Aerospace at Kennedy Space Center and as recall coordinator for Ford Motor in Dearborn, Michigan. Address: 403 Beam BAB, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA 16802, telephone: (814) 865-6370; fax: (814) 863-7261; internet: DAG4@PSUVM.PSU.EDU.

Stanley G. Harris ("Organizational Culture and Individual Sensemaking: A Schema-based Perspective") is Assistant Professor of Management at the College of Business at Auburn University. He received his Ph.D. in Organizational Psychology from The University of Michigan. His research interests revolve around the domains created by the overlap of several topics: organizational change and transformation, organizational culture, strategic human resource management practices, and individual sensemaking. He is an active member of the Academy of Management and also currently serves on the editorial review board of Human Resource Management. Address: Department of Management, Auburn University, Auburn, AL 36849-5401, telephone: (205) 844-6519; fax: (205) 844-4016; internet: Harris@business.auburn.edu; bitnet: Stan@auducvax.

Mauri Laukkanen ("Comparative Cause Mapping of Organizational Cognitions") D.Sc. (Econ.), is currently Associate Professor with the Department of Management and Organization, University of Vaasa, Finland. Before that he was with the Helsinki School of Economics, where he also received his doctorate in 1989, having previously worked several years as an SME-CEO. Address: PB 297, SF-65101 Vaasa, Finland, fax: +358-61-3248195; e-mail: mlau@uvasa.fi.

Nancy Paule Melone ("Reasoning in the Executive Suite: The Influence of Role/Experience-based Expertise on Decision Processes of Corporate Executives") earned her Ph.D. in MIS from the Carlson School of Management at the University of Minnesota, where she was affiliated also with the Center for Human Learning (Psychology). She is Associate Professor of Management at the University of Oregon. Her research interests include the study of mediated and nonmediated individual and group decision processes, the dynamic relationship between user attitudes toward technology and their behaviors, dynamic models of technology adoption in organizations, and coordination and information flow in technology-oriented, high-risk, high-reliability organizations. She has published her work in journals such as Management Science, Organizational Behavior and Human Decision Processes, Journal of Health and Social Behavior, and Journal of Systems and Software. Her experience as a strategy analyst in a regional bank holding company inspired the article that now appears in Organization Science. Address: Charles H. Lundquist College of Business, University of Oregon, Eugene, OR 97403, internet: nmelone@uoregon.uoregon.edu.

Margaret E. Phillips ("Industry Mindsets: Exploring the Cultures of Two Macro-organizational Settings") is Assistant Professor of Organization and Management at the School of Business and Management, Pepperdine University, Malibu, CA 90263 (telephone: (310) 456-4089; fax (310) 456-4126; bitnet: mphillip@pepperdine.edu). She received her Ph.D. in Management from the University of California, Los Angeles, in 1990. Her research interests include cultural influences on behavior in and of organizations, management development in multicultural contexts, qualitative methods, and arts management.

Richard L. Priem ("Executive Judgment, Organizational Congruence, and Firm Performance") is Assistant Professor at the University of Texas at Arlington, where he received his Ph.D. in Strategic Management in 1990. His research on executive judgment, consensus, group decision making and marketing theory has appeared in the Strategic Management Journal, Journal of Management, Group and Organization Studies, and Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science. Address: The University of Texas at Arlington, College of Business Administration, UTA Box 19467, Arlington, TX 76019, telephone: (817) 273-3865.

Michael A. Rappa ("A Socio-cognitive Model of Technology Evolution: The Case of Cochlear Implants") is Associate Professor of Management at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Sloan School of Management. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Minnesota. His current research examines the sociology of research communities and the emergence of new technologies. At MIT, he teaches courses in technology assessment and managing R&D. Address: MIT, Building E52-538, 50 Memorial Drive, Cambridge, MA 02139, telephone: (617) 253-3627; fax: (617) 621-0037; internet: MRAPPA@EAGLE.MIT.EDU.

Dov Te'eni ("Designing Information Technology to Support Distributed Cognition") is Associate Professor of Management Information Systems at Case Western Reserve University. He received his Ph.D. in Managerial Studies from Tel Aviv University. Dr. Te'eni studies human-computer interaction for managerial work (e.g., the design of feedback in DSS and GDSS). He is also interested in behavioral and organizational aspects of information systems and organizes voluntary computer support for the nonprofits. Address: Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, OH 44106-7235, telephone: (216) 368-3914; e-mail: teenid@pyrite.som.cwru.edu.

Ramkrishnan Tenkasi ("Designing Information Technology to Support Distributed Cognition") received his Ph.D. from Case Western Reserve University. His research examines organizational learning in complex and nonroutine task environments such as new product development. Recent publications have appeared in Journal of Engineering and Technology Management and Research in Organizational Change and Development, Volume 7. Address: School of Business Administration, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA 90089-1421, telephone: (213) 740-1957; e-mail: tenkasi@almaak.usc.edu.

James B. Thomas ("Symbolism and Strategic Change in Academia: The Dynamics of Sensemaking and Influence") is Associate Professor in the Department of Management and Organization, Smeal College of Business Administration, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA 16802. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Texas at Austin in 1988. His current research interests include strategic issue interpretation, top management team information processing, and strategic alignment of business and information technology domains. Bitnet: j2t@psuvm.edu.