

Organization Science

Publication details, including instructions for authors and subscription information:
<http://pubsonline.informs.org>

About Authors

To cite this article:

(1997) About Authors. Organization Science 8(1):107-107. <https://doi.org/10.1287/orse.8.1.107>

Full terms and conditions of use: <https://pubsonline.informs.org/Publications/Librarians-Portal/PubsOnLine-Terms-and-Conditions>

This article may be used only for the purposes of research, teaching, and/or private study. Commercial use or systematic downloading (by robots or other automatic processes) is prohibited without explicit Publisher approval, unless otherwise noted. For more information, contact permissions@informs.org.

The Publisher does not warrant or guarantee the article's accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement. Descriptions of, or references to, products or publications, or inclusion of an advertisement in this article, neither constitutes nor implies a guarantee, endorsement, or support of claims made of that product, publication, or service.

© 1997 INFORMS

Please scroll down for article—it is on subsequent pages

With 12,500 members from nearly 90 countries, INFORMS is the largest international association of operations research (O.R.) and analytics professionals and students. INFORMS provides unique networking and learning opportunities for individual professionals, and organizations of all types and sizes, to better understand and use O.R. and analytics tools and methods to transform strategic visions and achieve better outcomes. For more information on INFORMS, its publications, membership, or meetings visit <http://www.informs.org>

About Authors

Blake E. Ashforth ("The Ubiquity and Potency of Labeling in Organizations") is associate professor of management at Arizona State University. He received his Ph.D. in Organizational Behavior from the University of Toronto. His research interests include the links between individual-, group-, and organizational-level phenomena. Address: Department of Management, Arizona State University, P.O. Box 874006, Tempe, AZ 85287-4006; telephone: (602) 965-0917; fax: (602) 965-8314; e-mail: ashforth@asuvm.inre.asu.edu.

Natalie Glance ("Training and Turnover in the Evolution of Organizations") is a research scientist at Rank Xerox Research Centre in Grenoble, France. She received her doctorate in physics from Stanford University in 1993. Her current research interests include business process modeling and simulation. Address: Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, 3333 Coyote Hill Road, Palo Alto, CA 94304.

Paul Hart ("Power and Trust: Critical Factors in the Adoption and Use of Electronic Data Interchange") is associate professor of computer information systems at Florida Atlantic University. His research interests include interorganizational computer networks and shifting organizational boundaries and emergent communication roles in organizations. He received his Ph.D. from the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Southern California. Address: The College of Business, Florida Atlantic University, P.O. Box 3091, Boca Raton, FL 33431; telephone: (407) 367-3674; fax: (407) 367-3978; e-mail: hart@acc.fau.edu.

Tad Hogg ("Training and Turnover in the Evolution of Organizations") received the Ph.D. degree in physics from Stanford University. He is presently at the Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, where his current interests include the behavior and organizational structure of large multi-agent systems, and their effectiveness in performing complex cooperative tasks. Address: Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, 3333 Coyote Hill Road, Palo Alto, CA 94304.

Bernardo A. Huberman ("Training and Turnover in the Evolution of Organizations") is a research fellow at the Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, where he heads a group studying the dynamics of distributed processes in social organizations and computational systems. He has published a number of papers on the nonlinear dynamics of distributed computational systems and the power of cooperation in multiagent systems. Address: Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, 3333 Coyote Hill Road, Palo Alto, CA 94304; telephone: (415) 812-4147; fax: (415) 812-4334; e-mail: huberman@parc.xerox.com.

Ron Humphrey ("The Ubiquity and Potency of Labeling in Organizations") received his Ph.D. in Sociology and Social Psychology from the University of Michigan. His research interests focus on how organizational structures and job characteristic influence cognitive and emotional processes. Address: Department of Management, Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, VA 23284-4000.

Barbara S. Lawrence ("The Black Box of Organizational Demography") is Associate Professor of Management at the Anderson Graduate School of Management, UCLA. Address: Anderson Graduate School of Management, Box 95148, University of California Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA 90095-1481; telephone: (310) 825-1252; secretary: (310) 825-2506; fax: (310) 206-3337; e-mail: barbara.lawrence@anderson.ucla.edu.

Charles C. Manz ("Attaining Flexible Stability by Integrating Total Quality Management and Socio-technical Systems Theory"), formerly a Marvin Bower Fellow at the Harvard Business School, is an Associate Professor in the Department of Management, Arizona State University. He has written many articles and three books on the topics of employee self-leadership and self-managed work teams. Address: Department of Management, Arizona State University, Tempe, AZ 85287; telephone: (602) 965-8218; fax: (602) 965-8314; e-mail: ICCXM@ASUACAD.

Carol Stoak Saunders ("Power and Trust: Critical Factors in the Adoption and Use of Electronic Data Interchange") earned a Ph.D. in Organizational Behavior and Management at the University of Houston. Her current research interests include information acquisition, interorganizational linkages, outsourcing and group support systems. Address: Department of Management, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, IL 62901-4627.

Greg L. Stewart ("Attaining Flexible Stability by Integrating Total Quality Management and Socio-technical Systems Theory") is an assistant professor in the Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University. His research examines issues related to self-managing teams, as well as the impact of personality differences on employee performance. Address: Owen Graduate School of Management, Vanderbilt University, 401 21st Ave South, Nashville, TN 37203; telephone: (615) 322-2642; fax: (615) 343-7177; e-mail: STEWARGL@CTRVAX.VANDERBILT.EDU.

Robert I. Sutton ("The Virtues of Closet Qualitative Research") received his Ph.D. degree in organizational psychology from The University of Michigan in 1984. He is Professor of Organizational Behavior in Stanford University's Department of Industrial Engineering and Engineering Management. Most of his research uses psychological theory, alone or in combination with sociological perspectives, to help understand how people influence and are influenced by their organizational contexts. Address: Department of Industrial Engineering and Engineering Management, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305.

Marcie J. Tyre ("The Situated Nature of Adaptive Learning in Organizations") is the J. Spencer Standish Career Development Professor of Management at MIT Sloan School of Management. Her research examines the problem-solving process during the introduction of new technology. Recent research focuses on the barriers to problem solving with technologies-in-use, and the timing of such problem-solving activities. Address: MIT, Sloan School of Management, E52-537, Cambridge, MA 02142-1347; telephone: (617) 253-6679; fax: (617) 253-2660; e-mail: mtyre@mit.edu.

Eric von Hippel ("The Situated Nature of Adaptive Learning in Organizations") is Professor of Management of Technology at the MIT Sloan School of Management. His recent research explores problem-solving patterns and methods in R & D and product and service development. Address: MIT, Room E52-556, Cambridge, MA 02139; telephone: (617) 577-8905; fax: (617) 253-2660; e-mail: Evhippel@mit.edu.