What is the title of your proposed volume?

What is the scope of your proposed volume? For example, you could list several application issues of recognized importance that fall within the scope, and others that fall outside.

What is it that makes the topic of your volume especially relevant today?

What about your background or achievements establishes you as being among the most suitable people to prepare the volume described above?

Proposals will be evaluated in four categories:

- representation of relevant and high impact academic research
- representation of relevant teaching content
- representation of relevant and high impact practice work
- defined pathways to disseminate information that unifies research and practice and has high impact.

For each category, please provide a few examples and a brief plan for further development.
